4	J. Passage 1 (4) Brainstorm a list of all the things that make you happy. Just write whatever comes into your mind without thinking about it too much. Now look at that list and tick all the ones that are fun or enjoyable. Properly most of them, right? So, if you could spend most of your time doing all this fun stuff, you would be really happy, surely? Well, maybe not. For most people, only doing things for fun is not enough for long-term happiness. This is because, according to author of Happiness by Design Paul Dolan, your happiness depends on a 'pleasure-purpose balance'. If most of the things on your list of what makes you happy fall under the category of 'pleasure', then that might be what you think makes you happy. But what will actually make you happy is balancing them out with activities that give your life purpose. We tend to know straight away if something is enjoyable, but knowing what brings meaning and value requires more thought. For example, most people will say that air pilots have jobs with clear purpose. They are responsible for hundreds of people and fly all over the world. But in reality, their day-to- day work might involve spending time in boring hotels or stuck in airports waiting for flights, and routine actions they performed hundreds of times. Those activities might not feel very meaningful – and they are probably fun either. Just like everyone else, the pilot needs balance in their work and life to be happy. 33- The author's main purpose in the passage is to discuss----------. 1) why doing fun activities is enough for our happiness 2) what actually makes people happy 3) the reasons for happiness 4) the effects of happiness 34- According to the passage, in Happiness by Design, Paul Dolan ----------. 1) answers a question 2) describes an experiment 3) supports an old way of thinking 4) provides interesting examples 35- The word "requires" in paragraph 3 is closest in meaning to ----------. 1) needs 2) receives 3) makes 4) depends 36- It is suggested in paragraph 3 that air pilots' work ----------. 1) never makes them want to give up 2) does not involve the repetition of certain tasks 3) may not be as meaningful as people commonly think 4) is considered to be both fun and purposeful by pilots themselves	10

	37- According to paragraph 2, if you want to be happy, you should balance ---------- out with----------. 38- The underlined pronoun "they" in the last paragraph refers to ----------.
4	K. Passage 2. (4) Respect is a way of acting well or thinking highly about something or someone. You respect those who are important to you. You show your respect by being polite and kind. When you are impolite or act badly toward people, they may feel sad or angry. But whom should you respect the most? You must care for those who always care for you. You know that your parents care for you for every little thing. You must love them, respect them, and care for them. Besides bringing you into the world, your parents spend their time, energy, and strength to make sure that you have what you need or want. Telling them that you thank them reflects the level of your respect for them. The easiest way to show your love and respect is to tell them that you appreciate who they are and what they do. You can also do something small but meaningful, for example, wash the dishes, clean the kitchen after dinner or clean the rooms. Your parents will pay attention to and appreciate your acts of kindness. You may also tell your mom how well she cooks, or tell your dad how great he is at his job. For most of parents, any of these small things can be a sign of respect. True / False 39. We respect those who are important to us for some reasons. a) True b) False 40. If you are impolite or act badly toward people, they feel important. a) True b) False Choose the best answer. 41.
