The country of Australia has a vast area of land called "the outback," where few people live. If you live in the outback, chances are you're far from any town. And that means you're a long way from a school. So what do you do if you can't go to school? Well, school comes to you. Over 100 kids in the outback attend ASSOA—Alice Springs School of the Air. ASSOA students are connected by the Internet. 4

Some lessons happen in real time. When students log in, their teacher appears on their computer screens. She can talk to students, show an art project, or explain a science experiment. She can't see the students, but she can hear them. Students communicate with their teacher and with each other over the Internet, using their computers. But because students are in a "virtual" classroom and not at a physical school, they must still have a home tutor. The tutor can be a parent or a hired teacher. All tutors are trained to help students understand and complete their work.

ASSOA tries to create a school community. Every two weeks, students attend a virtual school assembly. Three times a year, all students travel to the town of Alice Springs. For an entire week, they leave the virtual classroom and enter a real one.

1. The students attend a physical school for a short time once every year. a) True b) False
2. The students still need the guidance of a teacher at home. a) True b) False
3. What is the best title for the passage?
   a) A Look at Future
   b) The Model of Australia
   c) School is a Click Away
   d) An Outback is Really an Outback 4. The real-time virtual classes that the students have are classes in which ….. .
   a) the teacher can see the students
   b) the students can see their teacher
   c) the teacher is also each student's tutor
   d) the students can't talk with one another
