N. Read the passage and answer the following questions.

Passage1 (2):

Researchers believe that work place appreciation and gratitude plays a critical role in boosting the happiness and sense of belonging of the employees or workers. Research findings suggest that if the employers want to see their employees work and function well, they must keep on appreciating good work. Not surprisingly, this gratitude lowers the stress level in workers and employees and makes them highly motivated to do their best at work. Medical research also shows that workers' general health is dependent on the way they are treated at work place: if employers respect and thank their workers, they will feel the resulting improved physical and mental power. (Treatment: بـرخـو ر د gratitude: سپاسگزاری Motivated: با انگیزه)

42. How is workers' general health dependent on employers' treatment?

Passage 2 (2):

John worked in a big company but he was not happy at all. Their boss was a very serious and strict man who always shouted at his workers and asked them to work harder and harder without boosting their salary. Once john was sick, his temperature was really high and he couldn't go to work for two days. After two days, when he went to work, there was another man who was working in his place. He went to the boss and asked him for the reason. He expected him to shout and say; "you can't work here anymore, go out". But the boss did not look at him while he was writing something. Suddenly, he stood up, hugged john and said: "You have been working here for twenty years and you were never late to work. I have decided to give you a better position in this company as a sign of appreciation". John couldn't believe it. He worked in his new position for the next ten years before he got retired.
