The influenza virus is a single molecule composed of millions of individual atoms. Although bacteria can be considered a type of plant , secreting poisonous substances into the body of the organism they attack, viruses, like the influenza virus, are living organisms themselves. We may consider them regular chemical molecules since they have strictly defined atomic structure, but on the other hand, we must also consider them as being alive since they are able to multiply in unlimited quantities.

43. We understand from the text that…….

a)atomic structure is poisonous.

b)molecules are living themselves.
