4	We hear so much about " renewable energy ". But how much do we know about it? It is a type of energy that is sustainable – something that can't run out, or is endless. It can be seen as an alternative to the most commonly used non- renewable sources – like coal. The most popular renewable energy sources are wind, biomass, solar and geothermal. Wind energy, or wind power, describes the process by which wind is used to generate electricity. Wind turbines convert the kinetic energy in the wind into mechanical power. A generator can convert mechanical power into electricity. Biomass is plant or animal material used as fuel to produce electricity or heat. Examples are wood, energy crops and waste from forests, yards, or farms. Since biomass technically can be used as a fuel directly (e.g., wood logs), some people use the terms biomass and biofuel interchangeably. Solar energy is the transformation of heat, the energy that comes from the sun. it has been used for thousands of years in many different ways by people all around the world. Geothermal energy is heat within the earth. The word geothermal comes from the Greek word "geo " (earth) and "therme " (heat). It is renewable because heat is continuously produced inside the earth. People use geothermal heat for bathing, to heat buildings, and to generate electricity. Despite its benefits, renewable energy is not as common as you may expect. The reason is that we cannot store wind and sunshine for so long. Furthermore, fossil fuels such as petroleum, coal, and natural gas are much cheaper compared with renewable energy sources. So, the government should make more investments in order to save the planet. 59. Which of the following is not offered in the passage as a source of renewable energy? a. geothermal energy b. biomass energy c. hydro energy d. solar energy 60. The word " store " in paragraph 5 line 2 is closest in meaning to ..... a. produce b. change c. save d. use 61. Geothermal energy is plant or animal material used as fuel to produce electricity or heat. a. True b. False 62. We can use biomass as a fuel directly. a. True b. False 63. What is the origin of the word " geothermal "? 64. Why are renewable energy sources not very common?

Learning English is not easy at all. However, if you continue it, you will be able to communicate in English after about one year or so. The most difficult part of learning this language is the pronunciation of the words because many of the words are not spoken in the same they are written. For example, the 'b' in the word "dumb" , the "k" in the word "knight" and the final "e" in the word "before" are not pronounced. Furthermore, some sounds do not exist in the English alphabet, but they are pronounced in certain words that have a combination of certain sounds. A good example of this combination is "sh" in the words "childish", "peevish" and "English".

Although English pronunciation is irregular, hard and confusing, English learners who have practiced a lot can easily distinguish and utter them. The guide to correct pronunciation is available in the entry of every word in the dictionary. Every dictionary also contains an introduction to English pronunciation from which you can distinguish different sounds. An easier way to learn native pronunciation of English words is to listen to audio books and watch English movies.
