B:Passage 1: Read the passage and answer the questions. 16

Nutrition is the process by which plants and animals take in and use food. Food is needed to keep the body running smoothly . It provides energy for work and play, for breathing , and for the beating of the heart .The building material for muscles , bones, and blood comes from food . You can't have a healthy body without healthy eating and drinking. Not enough of some foods, or too much of others ,can lead to illness.

The food and drink you take in are called your diet.(This word is sometimes used in another way, to mean eating less food than normal in order to lose weight , as in "going on a diet")

A person's diet is so important because growth and health depend on it. Dietician are people with knowledge of special diets(dietetics) , such as those used for sick people in hospital.

We should never forget that across the world between 13 and 18million people die each year from starvation and the diseases it brings; most of them are babies and young children. For the millions more who suffer from lack of food(not enough of the right foods), healthy eating is out of the question. It is hard enough just to try and stay alive.
